The Essentials of Responsible Social Media Use

Presenting yourself appropriately on social media may affect your admissions to college or getting a job. The pictures and language you post on your social media pages could very well influence the decisions concerning your acceptance to college or a job. If you want to get into college and secure the job aligned with your career goals, learn how you can curate your image to present your best self to your friends and the world.

This session will provide information on how to be responsible with social media and assist in building an online reputation that will help with college admission and employment.

Essentials of Responsible Social Media use is covered in a 1-hour session:

Objectives: Upon successful completion of training students will be able to:

1. Update privacy settings for commonly used social media platforms to protect their privacy.
2. Identify appropriate social media posts and the impact on being accepted into post-secondary education and employment.
3. Define Cyberbullying and how to respond to it.
4. Identify at least one positive way to use social media for post-secondary education and employment.
